Wollangambe Crater - Altered Parking Arrangements

David Springthorpe (CMW) advises that parking arrangements off Sandham Road about 1/2 km past Bell Station (at approximately Mount Wilson 469898) for accessing the firetrail and walking track by which Wollangambe Crater may be visited have been altered. Previously, vehicles were able to be parked in the clearing for the high-tension power transmission lines which was accessed by a short trail at this location. This arrangement has apparently been disallowed because it is Private Property. There is now a gate at the turn-off, although this was not locked at the end of June. The NP&WS has erected a parking sign at a very small clearing beside the gate with a short path leading to the firetrail. This parking area is able to accommodate about 3 vehicles including one blocked in, so if necessary parking space for other vehicles must be found along Sandham Road. Walking only access is still allowed along the short distance to the NP&WS gate and sign where Blue Mountains NP begins.
